YOU

Must be interested in what I have been able to do for you. I have just opened up a parlor of dancing and performances from one of the largest factories in the world. Usually you pay $3.00 for a gold filled Brooch, am to-day selling a solid gold pin Brooch for $1.00 and a solid gold real pearl and diamond garter for $10.00, usually sold for $30.00. My stock is too large for a small town so the prices are sure to come down. In the Pass, in fact, we will make more than ever. Cannot describe my stock so please call and inspect, all welcome.

PRESIDENT F. H. SHERMAN HERE

Gives an Address in the Miners Hall on the Condition of Distress and other Important Matters

President F. H. Sherman of district No. 1, U. M. W. A. gave an address in the miners' hall here on Tuesday evening. Notice was given on Saturday that a meeting of the miners could take place in their hall on Tuesday night at which President Sherman would speak. On Tuesday evening when the time came to call the meeting to order the right to allow any persons other than members of the union to attend the meeting was disputed but was settled when the local president called the meeting to order and asked for the opinion of the members present on that matter. Wm. Graham, secretary-treasurer of the local union, said that as no executive work and nothing of a private nature would be brought forward, moved that the meeting be left open for the public; this was seconded by W. Hayson, who said that as president Sherman was willing that the meeting be a public one he did not see why it should not be. Upon the motion being put only one voted against it.

President Sherman was introduced to the audience and called upon to speak. He said that he wished to speak a few words on a matter of interest. You will remember that a little while ago we agitated for something which would prove beneficial to the working class of this province and we have got it—the Compensation Act which came into force on January 1st, now the government wish to make some alterations which would not be beneficial to the working class.

The government cannot afford to repel the Compensation act as an election was drawing near.

The managers wished to increase the working time of the miners by adding half a hour to their time off, giving us an extra 15 minutes the time while the miners take in going to and coming from work through the mines, thus as he (Sherman) claimed it, making a fine hour for the miners. If the government did such a thing they would be up against a hard proposition which would come up on April 1st. If five cents less were paid the miners for every ton of coal mined by them, as is proposed, it would rid the managers of all responsibility and defeat the act in the way in which it would be of most interest to the miners. When speaking of the injustice often meted out to the working class the speaker said that the proscribing judges generally reserve their decision until they refer the matter to Ottawa.

Dr. Westwood, who has been at the Pacific coast during the past three weeks, returned to Coleman on Wednesday night.

J. M. Manley, proprietor of the Grand Union hotel, who has been at Victoria, B.C., attending the legislature, will return to Coleman on Saturday, 20th inst.

A runner reached town on Wednesday that George A. Haslett, of the R.N.W.M.P., was shot at Macleod on Monday last. Upon making inquiry he found the rumor to be incorrect.

Tom Longboat and Alfred Shrubbs are not met for a mile race to take place in Buffalo on the 25th inst. The purse will be $7,500. Tom never runs faster than is necessary and we again predict that he will be there the finish to pocket the wad.

The fight which takes place next Friday night in the opera house here promises to be the best ever I let off in Coleman. Both Johnson and Burrows have been trained to the minute and are prepared to hand out the resulting sound of the gong.

A meeting of the joint committee, consisting of O. E. S. Whiteside, J. D. Hurd, of Fernie, and W. F. McNeil, of Cranmore, representing the mine operators, and President F. H. Sherman, Wm. Graham, and A. J. Carter, of Michel, representing the miners, was held in Mr. Whiteside's office on Tuesday. The only matter which came up for consideration was the interpretation of the brushing clause in the Coleman agreement. This was referred to the scale committee, which meets at Macleod on March 2nd.

It will be with feelings of regret that the people of Coleman will learn that Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Benedict are about to leave Coleman for the Pacific coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Benedict have lived in Coleman during the past five years, during which time they have made numerous friends and have gained the respect of all who know them.

Mr. Benedict has held the office of secretary-treasurer for the town for nearly three years.

He has been president of the board of trade during the past year and was again re-elected to that office for the current year and has always taken a keen interest in matters pertaining to the betterment of the town.

They will leave here on Saturday, 13th, for Vancouver, B.C., where Mr. Benedict will conduct a business for himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Benedict's many friends wish that a continued flow of happiness and prosperity will be theirs.

LONGBOAT WINS AGAIN

Tommy Longboat, the Canadian long distance runner, defeated Alfred Shrubbs, the English champion in middle distance runner, at Madison Square Garden, New York, on last Friday night.

It will be remembered that this race was postponed from January 23rd on account of one of Shrubbs' feet becoming inflamed through the rub of a tight shoe during his training work at Montclair, N.J.

In the twentieth mile Shrubbs was eight laps or four-fifths of a mile ahead of Longboat, but at the juncture Longboat slowly but surely gained on his rival.

A press despatch says:

"The thousands of spectators were in a turmoil of great excitement. They yelled and cheered as the Indian slowly moved up to abreast of the Englishman, who was now but a second or two behind the twenty-fifth mile."

Longboat ran without any seeming distress, while Shrubbs, unable to run further, fell back into a walk.

Longboat quickly took the lead, and Shrubbs, unable to continue, collapsed on the track, leaving the triumphal Longboat to finish the race alone, a winner.

So Tom Longboat, the Onondaga Indian, from Canada, wrested the laurels of an indoor Marathon from the plucky Englishman, and accomplished it by maintaining an even swinging stride, which rarely varied throughout the race. Longboat's time for the distance, 36 miles 35 yards, was 2:53.40.25, which is nearly el in minutes behind the record made by Dorando."

The Ownership of Ptolemy Caesar.

By LEONARD FRANK ADAMS.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Jessie Morgan.

Ravenor stood in the library in all the luxury of early morning negligee. A gorgeous bathrobe swathed his big frame from his chin to his heels. His feet were thrust into a pair of comfortable looking Turkish slippers, deep drafts of which he inhaled thoughtfully as he eyed the man in the chair by the window. The latter was responding to his unseemly hour.

Ravenor's early caller was not prepossessing. Indeed, he was distinctly otherwise. His eyes were small, watery blue and shifty. His underjaw was weak, and his seedy clothes and frayed linen were none too clean. Between him, its own smart appearance in striking contrast to the man's general out at elbows air, crouched a portly waiter.

"Want to sell me the pup, I suppose?" Ravenor said pleasantly. "That's why you're here, isn't it? That's why you got me out of bed at this unchristian hour?"

The man nodded hopefully. "I thought you'd like a chance at 'im so long's I saw it was following you."

"Where'd you get him?" Ravenor asked sharply.

"Raised 'im from a pup, s'elp me," the man responded glibly. "An' I wouldn't sell 'im if I didn't need the coin the worst way. I ear'd as 'ow you was open for a good trade in 'is line, so I brought 'im round." "Eggs all right, now, ain't it? Stand up, Ptolemy! an' give the gent a good look at you!"

The dog obediently stood up, and Ravenor's eyes lighted with interest. There could be no denying that Ptolemy was a fine specimen of his breed. His clean cut head, his well shaped shoulders, his crooked little tail, all spoke that.

"I got 'is pedigree 'ere on this paper," the man observed, drawing a dirty envelope from his pocket.

"Oh, never mind that," Ravenor replied, with a meaning grin. "What do you want for him?"

"I'd oughter have fifty, an' 'e's dirt cheap at that," he said. "Tell what I'll do—I'll give you him."

The man shrugged his shoulders. "I can't be too fussy, boss," he said. "I need the money, an' I need it bad. So long as I know 'e's goin' into good hands, I'll let him go."

Ravenor counted out the bills and handed them to the man, who ran them over with grimy fingers and departed, with a sigh and a sorrowful glance in the dog's direction, both of which were rather touching.

Once the front door had closed behind him, Ravenor tossed his cigarette into the fireplace and pressed the button on the wall.

"Annie," he said to the second girl, who answered his summons. "I've just bought this pup. He answers to the name of Ptolemy. Take him down stairs and give him a feed. Then let him out in the back yard. I'll get along upstairs. You may call me at ten o'clock."

Ravenor went upstairs to resume his interrupted slumbers, and Ptolemy, having fared sumptuously at the hands of the cook, was turned loose in the back yard, where a gallant half-hour sport with a bit of old raggedy clothesline and making desperate endeavors to catch the sparrows which now and again fluttered into the air.

It was perhaps three-quarters of an hour after the sale that a cautious whistling sounded from the alley side of the high fence which inclosed the back yard, where a fellow drew up against the wall to avoid being run over and, peering into the coach, recognized Pitt and saw Mr. Lester, who was in full cancan sitting opposite him.

The fellow exclaimed, "Well, Billy Pitt, and with a person too?"

I said, "He thinks you are going to Tyburn to be hanged privately," which was rather impudent of me, but Pitt was too much absorbed, I believe, in thinking of the marriage to be angry.

After all, however, he was so nervous that he could not sign as witness,

Canning whispered to him to sign without waiting for him. He accepted the marriage as the one thing needed to give Canning the position necessary to lead a party, and this was the cause of his anxiety about it, which I would not have believed had I not witnessed it, though I knew how warm was the regard he had for Canning.

Therefore when Ravenor made his appearance at 11 o'clock no Ptolemy answered his call with whistlings. Annie and the cook protected him by their complete mystification in the dog's appearance. Sure, they had thought him right in the yard all the time, they declared. He'd been chasing the sparrows and wailing there not ten minutes since. Ravenor searched the back yard thoroughly, the tool house, the little room where the oil barrels stood, even the coil of hoses that lay in one corner, but no trace of his recent purchase could be found.

After lunch he went downtown to put an advertisement of his loss in the paper. The afternoon being particularly fine, he decided to walk home. He had reached the little square where the bridge crossed the avenue and was striding briskly past the statue in the center of the diamond when a dog in full cry after a flock of elusive sparrows dashed past him.

There could be no mistaking that head, those clean cut shoulders, the distinctive markings of the neck and dark. Ravenor started in pursuit of the dog.

"Hear, you Ptolemy, Ptolemy! Come here! Come here, boy!"

The dog stopped, seemed to debate for a moment, then came toward Ravenor, wriggling his twisted stump of a tail in ridiculous apology.

"Nice way you deserted me this morning, wasn't it?" said Ravenor severely.

"Come on with me now. No more back yard ergies for you unless some one has an eye on you."

He started homeward, the dog following meekly at his heels, but before he reached the other side of the yard he caught the quick tread of light footfalls. An agitated voice close behind him was saying, "Oh, I beg your pardon."

The dog was now about to find himself face to face with Katherine Gray. Ravenor unconsciously stiffened. It was a trifle disconcerting to come thus abruptly upon a girl with whom he had quarreled but a short week before—a girl who before that quarrel had been the subject of his everyday dream.

The girl was equally surprised and embarrassed. She caught her breath in a little gasp, and the quick color mounted her cheeks. Almost instantly, however, she had recovered her poise, and the tail wagged a little.

"I'm sorry to trouble you," she said coldly. "I merely came for my dog. I saw it was following you."

"Your dog?" said Ravenor.

"My dog," repeated.

Ravenor looked uncomfortable, but he faced her reluctantly.

"There must be a mistake about this," said he. "I'm very sure he's mine."

"Yours?"

"Let me prove it to you. He knows his name. Here, Ptolemy."

The dog came obediently to Ravenor's side. He stood and looked up expectantly.

"Garge—lt v' mussus doan' get better by next Tewday fortnight I'll sen' fer t' doctor."

Ravenor trotted over to her and repeated his maneuvers.

"Good heavens!" said Ravenor, uttering a considerate for the moment. Then suddenly he had an inspiration.

"Did you buy him recently?" he asked.

"This afternoon," she confessed.

"Of a seedy, shifty eyed man?"

She nodded.

Ravenor drew a long breath; then he laughed. "That explains it," he declared. "I bought him of the same man at this morning."

"Oh!" said the girl; then she, too, fell to laughing.

"Come," said Ravenor at length, "let me walk home with you, and then we'll decide who has the better claim to Caesar or Ptolemy, or whatever him is."

It was a long talk they had before a regular fire in the cozy hall. It settled many points bearing the ownership of the dog. When it was finished it was twilight, and two very contented young people were enjoying their rightful heritage of happiness again.

"And about the dog?" Ravenor suggested when he finally arose to leave.

"You take him," she said. "It's mine."

"I'd oughter have fifty, an' 'e's dirt cheap at that," she said. "Tell what I'll do—I'll give you him."

The man shrugged his shoulders. "I can't be too fussy, boss," he said. "I need the money, an' I need it bad. So long as I know 'e's goin' into good hands, I'll let him go."

"Oh, never mind that," Ravenor replied, with a meaning grin. "What do you want for him?"

"I'd oughter have fifty, an' 'e's dirt cheap at that," he said. "Tell what I'll do—I'll give you him."

The man shrugged his shoulders. "I can't be too fussy, boss," he said. "I need the money, an' I need it bad. So long as I know 'e's goin' into good hands, I'll let him go."

Ravenor counted out the bills and handed them to the man, who ran them over with grimy fingers and departed, with a sigh and a sorrowful glance in the dog's direction, both of which were rather touching.

Health Hints for the Growing Family

OME children "just grow" like Topsy and those watching from afar wonder that they survive their early ignorance and maternal neglect. Other children are pampered, waited upon and pampered that they never learn to think for themselves, nor realize why certain things are done for the good of their health. Rose and happy is the mother who, when her mother combines precept and example and teaches the children how to take care of their person and their health. "I owe my mother nothing," said a girl of twenty-four, "she never taught me anything about personal cleanliness. All that I have learned about the care of my health and my body I have gained through watching,勤奋地. My wife I have met away from home at school. And yet my mother always had time to embroider sashes for the babies and doilies for the table."

There are very few parents, but perhaps not entirely undeserved, A girl who goes out into the world, or a boy who finds himself working among well-groomed men of clean habits is very likely to feel the humiliation at his own ignorance and to claim that certain elements in his education have been neglected.

Despite the warnings of up-to-date physicians on the dangers of head colds and the listing of the most important in the public health and sanitation, the gospel of the Saturday Night Bath is still preached in many civilized households. In the large cities where bathing is a science, there is every argument or fat, however human there is absolutely no excuse for negligence of this sort. So long as the child is in arms the mother gives it a daily bath, but as soon as the child grows large enough to play around indoors and out, and comes in contact with germs and dirt, or even disease, she forgets.

While I am not an advocate of the daily cold sponge, I do urge parents to believe that a warm bath, not hot but tepid, is first aid in the campaign for good health in the family circle. If a child is taught to take a daily bath just as he takes his nap or his mittens, with the buttons on the front instead of the back, it will become a habit.

When there is a bathroom there is no excuse for avoiding this practice and the child can be taught to bathe himself and keep other members of the family waiting. When there is no bathroom, a bath mat or piece of old soft rug, with a screen to place around the wash stand to prevent draughts, is an inexpensive plan that it needed to secure a quick sponge. This can be given with either a large wash rag or a sponge and tepid water.

Dentist's bills will be reduced if children are taught to clean their teeth before retiring as well as in the morning. Also to use dental floss after meals instead of toothpicks. It is difficult to imagine that it is time to train a child in the care of the teeth after the second or permanent teeth have come. By that time the teeth will be grounded in carieslessness. If taught the importance of the tooth, the teeth, clean and sound he will be saved much pain and humiliation in later years.

Many mothers spend hours during the day attending to the heads of their girls, but seldom the time to take care of their own. This is the unkink discrimination, though the boy may not see it in that light. His scalp should be watched as carefully as the girl's and he be taught to bathe his hair, too, with working dandruff looses with the finger tips by the aid of green soap or a good shampoo mixture. There is nothing more eloquent of maternal negligence than the sight of a baby, often seen on the schoolboy's coat collar. Many boys also ruin their hair by wetting it night and morning to keep stubborn locks in place. This is very apt to make the hair smell sour. If the hair is very dry reach the boy for a little olive oil or varnish into his scalp.

Teach your children how to sit and walk correctly. If you can possibly afford it, let them take a good dancing school where calisthenics and dancing lessons are combined. Here the child will learn to walk on the ball, not the heel, or the foot. Girls will learn to stand with the shoulders square. Girls are particularly prone to the habit of relaxing the muscles of the trunk and standing with the chest sunken and the abdomen protruding.

Watch very carefully for organic weakness and seek the cause. If your children squint or contract the face take them to an oculist. Glasses may relieve the eye strain and correct the visual field of sight is only temporary. The child may be anemic and when strength returns by the aid of glasses the visual defect may be removed.

Do not be afraid to take your children about the care of their bodies and particularly about the effect of foods upon the digestive apparatus. Many serious ailments, complexion changes, etc., can easily be blamed on the diet. If the fact that the children were not properly impressed with the evil results of constipation. Many mothers believe it is delicate to explain the effects of a fullness of the physical body, or to present that physical beauty is a thing to be desired, not a mere vanity. When children realize the marvelous place of mechanism which has been entrusted to their care they will be more anxious to have it, than they are now in an ignorance which the maternal instinct should clear up by intelligent explanations.

Nourishing Soups—Their Value to Growing Children

SOUPS should be given to a growing child twice a day. And the soup should be rich in quality and nourishing in ingredients, not a plate of macaroni and cheese does not warm the stomach and thus make it able to digest solid food. Many mothers argue that the children are tired of soup and will not eat it. This is often true, but not for the fact that the same style of soup is given to them week after week, and the stomach of a child demands a change just often as it does of its parents. We are given some soups to-day for soups that are inexpensive to make and are full of nourishment.

In boiling meat from which to get soup stock, the meat should be put in cold water, allowed to stand a little while, then bring to a boil and boil to boiling point. This extracts all the juices and leaves the meat utterly tasteless. Let the stock get perfectly cold and remove the fat from the top. It is then ready for soup.

Chicken Soup.—If you have boiled a fowl for salad or fricassees, take out three cupsfuls of the water in which it was cooked. Put this in a porcelain pan and add to it one cup of onions cut in cubes or dice, one stalk of asparagus, six peppercorns, a bay leaf, a few cloves, a sprig of thyme, and lastly two tablespoomspoons of finely chopped, lean boiled ham. Let it all come to a boil gradually, simmer and then strain through a colander and add tabasco sauce to the bouillon. If this proves too rich, add a little water.

Tomato Bisque.—Strain the juice from a can of tomatoes and press the tomatoes through a colander. Boil in a porcelain pan with a pint of soda, add to it 1 tablespoonful of butter and a scant half cup of cracker or dry bread crumbs. At the same time in another porcelain sauceman boil one quart of milk, and when boiling on the turner, pour the milk over the soup and constantly until it thickens. Salt and pepper to taste and serve with hot toasted crackers.

Scotia Broth.—Buy two pounds of mutton for the neck and add to it two quarts of water. Let it stand for an hour. Heat slowly and add half a cup of barley, let it boil and skim again, then simmer for an hour. Add to it 1 cup of flour, 1 cup of onions, 1 cup of chopped carrots, half cup of chopped turnips, and a cupful of celery which have been fried for 5 minutes in clean drippings. Then let the entire soup boil for one hour. Season slightly, with a little flour and serve with chopped parsley on the top.

Cream Clam.—Buy one dozen very large clams, and scrub the shells, put in pan and add a pint of water, cover tightly and let stand steam. Remove clams from the shells and chop fine, and add one quart of water to the clam juice. Let it come to a boil and skim off the scum which will rise to the surface. Add a tablespoomful of butter and serve. Season with pepper.

Girls are no longer given "stunt" of fine stitching which do not lead to definite results. Instead they are taught to make things that show and give pleasure. If a little girl wants to learn how to embroider, start her with a set of bean bags. These can be made in three sizes, from heavy white corduroy and the collar of wide white lace. The bag may be made from the corduroy and trimmed with rows of satin ribbon. Figure B is a charming model for the baby's first frock. Persian lawn or long cloth or muslin are the materials used in one piece so that there are no seams to rub on the baby's shoulders, and the lower ruff can be omitted and the plain little dress be evolved from the same pattern.

git frogs trimmed the front. It requires a little time to make this coat as it is in only two pieces.

Figure C is suitable for a smart little gown for a child from 8 to 12 years of age. It is charming in its youthfulness and is apt to be becoming to all children of this age. The garment can be made of any washable goods or of fine tucked silk to match the color of the goods. This model is exceedingly small, made up in plaid with white stripes, and the collar is of white yoke, waist band and armholes. Or it can be made in solid color, outlined with braids and lace up with bright ribbons. It is a design that appeals to many a young child and especially to the home sewer to manage. The sleeves at this season of the year should be made of the same material as the dress goods.

The coat represents an infant's long coat, and the collar can be made separate and of entirely different material. Many of these long coats are made of white corduroy and the collar of white lace. The collar may be made from the corduroy and trimmed with rows of satin ribbon. Figure B is a charming model for the baby's first frock. Persian lawn or long cloth or muslin are the materials used in one piece so that there are no seams to rub on the baby's shoulders, and the lower ruff can be omitted and the plain little dress be evolved from the same pattern.

Black and white effects promise to be very popular, either in the material or trimming. A strikingly prettily dressed model of a six-year-old fancy dress. This specific model was evolved in heavy French serge in Hull grey and the trimmings were of broadcloth the color of grey and white. It is also applied in the form of applique.

Work and Play in Winter Evenings

THE long evenings following dinner afford opportunities to test the patience and ingenuity of the house-mother. In supplying entertainment for children, many factors are to be considered, relaxation and a change of occupation for the child, quiet for the older and rest for the mother of household together with thoughts for others. The child who is taught to find pleasure in doing for others without feeling any sense of responsibility is the child who finds happiness at home.

BESS OTTAWA FOR AID

The Premier and Attorney General of Alberta journeyed to Ottawa some three weeks ago and conferred with the Ottawa government regarding the desirability of the Dominion government assisting Alberta "to build rail ways." But the Minister of Railways informed them that the federal house had no intention this year of doing so. Poor Alberta! What are we going to do with not enough money in the treasury to build a railway? Who is to blame? The present Alberta government, who, for the sake of "being it," accepted the meekly terms offered (with the support of the grafters thrown in) and now we find ourselves up against the rest thing of no funds to carry on the business of the province. We have nothing. Our natural resources, lands, minerals, timber, fisheries, water-power, etc., are all held and owned by the federal government, in view of which we receive about enough money to build one decent bridge over the Saskatchewan river. Shall we quietly submit to such treatment or shall we wake up and fight for the great wealth which is being held from us, being wasted and stolen at Ottawa? Shall we pledge the credit of Alberta for loans sufficient to cover our needs and burden the people with taxes and interest or shall we, like our neighboring province, British Columbia, secure control of our natural resources and, instead of an empty treasury and burdensome taxation, find ourselves with a handsome surplus in the strong box with which to build our roads and bridges and also in a position to take such further steps as may seem advisable for the welfare of our citizens? The people will have an opportunity of settling this question at the coming provincial election.

News has not yet reached this office that Premier Scott, of Saskatchewan, has resigned from his public position which he promised to do before he could prove the charges which he brought against H. W. Laird in the famous Laird-Scott libel case. This has been unable to do the case has come to an end by the jury rendering, and both parties paying their own costs.

THE BOARD OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS FOR CANADA

The Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada will hold a sitting at Court House, Lethbridge, Alta., during the first week of March, 1909, at the hour of ten in the forenoon, to hear the following application, in which you are interested:

Application of the C. P. Railway, under section 167 of the Railway Act, for an order authorizing diversions in its Crow's Nest Branch between Pelican and Crow's Nest, Alta.

Definite advice as to the actual date of Lethbridge hearing will be sent you by Mr. R. Richardson, acting secretary, while the board is on western tour.

This application is set down for consideration of the complaints of the towns of Cowley, Plumer Creek, Burns, Blairmore, Alta., with respect to this diversion.

MINERS LAYED OFF

Lethbridge, Feb. 9.—The Canada West Coal company, Taber, has partially suspended operations. On the 1st inst. about 150 men were given notice that they would not be required for a time at least. From 50 to 75 will be kept at work for the present. The reason assigned for it is a shortage of coal.

AN HONEST MAN GOES

The death took place recently of the former auditor-general of the Dominion, Mr. J. Lovett McDougall, whose disputes, on behalf of the Canadian tax payer with both political parties, will not soon be forgotten. Mr. McDougall, during the Conservative rule, was the watch dog of the treasury and according to the Liberals of those days was Canada's only hope. Just as soon as Sir Wilfred assumed the reins of power and found that Mr. McDougall made no distinction but still kept his eye on the treasury, the once great auditor general was quickly but surely put out of the way. Mr. McDougall was a fine type of man. His rugged honesty and courage enabled him to do good work during his lengthy tenure of office.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Now is the time to secure concession from the local government. What will you have?

Sir Wilfred Laurier says that we need more Chinese in Canada to work as domestic servants.

The Alberta government should hurry up those reductions in telephone rates. It would be a cheap way of catching a few votes.

The Lethbridge Herald says it has struck one honest Conservative paper in the Liberal have not so far won the Pass. Quite right, old man; either the Herald could find another among the Liberal sheets.

The Frank Paper thinks that with the Pincher Creek constituency cut in two the Liberals have not so far won the Pass. Quite right, old man; either we have the Socialists.

Each Liberal member at Ottawa represents 4,000 votes, while each Conservative represents 6,000 votes. The Liberal majority in proportion to representation is only 3.3 per cent.

Mr. Robertson, the Tory leader at Edmonton, makes a strong plea for more railroads throughout Alberta. He favors government ownership and operation of all lines in the province.

Sir Wilfred says that the success of the Conservative party in British Columbia was due to R. L. Borden declaring himself in favor of a white Canada and the exclusion of all Asiatics. Quite true.

The Lethbridge Herald thinks that G. L. Borden's telegram to the Colonists was responsible for the turn-down the Liberals received in B.C. Will the herald explain how the contents of his famous telegram reached the electors in a day when the Liberals found it necessary to postpone the election for a month in order to distribute the ballot boxes, etc., to the outlying polling places?

W. Laird in the famous Laird-Scott libel case. This has been unable to do the case has come to an end by the jury rendering, and both parties paying their own costs.

A meeting of the board of trustees of the Pincher City Methodist church was held at James Cook's on Saturday afternoon, to arrange matters for the year. The financial affairs of the church were gone into and were found to be much improved as quite a number of subscriptions were received lately and all debts have been paid off. There remains, however, the loan to be disposed of but no payment is due on same until January, 1910.

The councillors of the Supervision district at their last meeting decided to investigate the request made by many of the ratepayers for a road across here. The councillors made the investigation and decided to wait until the Government surveyor arrived in the spring to stake out the new road. Improvements will cost in neighborhood of five hundred or six hundred dollars.

SIXTY SKELETONS FOUND

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 10.—A cable from St. Pierre, Miquelon, says a number of human skeletons have been found in an excavation, bringing to mind a former shipwreck. The discovery was made by a fisherman at a place called Anse Allumets, while engaged in the excavation of the bones of a human being were discovered.

Further investigations were made and after more digging sixty more skeletons which had long reposed beneath the floor of the cottage, were brought to light. Under order of the mayor, the remains were conveyed to the cemetery, where they were interred in a common grave. It is believed they are the bodies of passengers of the sailing ship "Casside," which foundered near St. Pierre in the year of 1846, when sixty persons perished.

NEW BRITISH FLYING MACHINE IS A WONDER

London, Feb. 10—Reynolds' newspaper says patents have been secured in all countries for a new British heavier than air flying machine, which will revolutionize aeroplane construction.
This machine is as far in advance of the aeroplane of the Wright brothers as their was of its predecessors.

The main feature of the new machine is its extraordinary stability, conditions which would lead to disaster in other machines being utilized by the application of a mechanical contrivance which keeps the keel perfectly level.

Recent trials, which were conducted in the most secret manners, astonished the experts who witnessed them.

A MAN FOND OF HARD WARE DIET IS DEAD

Montreal, Feb. 12.—An human ostrich has just died in the Hospital for the Insane at Verdun.
He has been an inmate for the past nine years, and during that time developed a fondness for nails, wire, glass, hairpins, etc.
Had not a piece of wire penetrated his stomach he might have lived and thrived for many years on his diet of hard ware.

Following is the almost incredible list of articles found to have been swallowed by him:
Three bundles of broom fibre;
one piece of whalebone, eight inches long; one bundle of hair; one four inch nail; a piece of wire, bound with string; one piece of wire four inches long;
one three inch nail, with piece of cloth attached; one button hook; six pieces of pipe stems; twenty-one tobacco tags; thirty one small pieces of wire; four screws; one piece of insulated tape; one bootee; five one inch nails; two plum stones;
one paper fastener; one piece of twisted picture wire; nine pieces of iron; nine pieces of glass; one iron nut; four hairpins; four tacks; one horseshoe nail; fifty-two two inch nails;
seven two and a half inch nails;
one thirty-two three inch nails; one five inch nail, and two pieces of stone one half an inch square, the other an inch long and half an inch wide and half an inch thick.

A PHYSICAL WRECK

MR. RENE ST. JEAN.

A Resident of Ottawa Finds Relief in Per-u-na.

MR. RENE ST. JEAN, 210 St. Patrick street, Ottawa, Ont., can writes: "I believed a year ago that I could get along without a doctor for irregular hours, and did not mind the loss of a few meals, but in six weeks I had changed to a physical wreck."

"Eight bottles of Peruna brought back my strength."

Mr. A. O. Hastings, 508 W. 146 St., New York City, formerly one of the leading druggists of Prescott, Ont., has been presented with a twenty-five year medal of Honor by Old Fellowship. His address follows:

"Ever since I have had a fine trade. Once a family buys a bottle, it is sure to sell again. I am a constant customer."

"I have nothing better for catarrh in all of its various forms. As a household remedy it is without compare, splendid for mothers and excellent for children."

Still Susceptible.

We were a nervous, delicate young man and looked with considerable apprehension at the woman next him, who had a baby; its face covered with a thick veil. The baby gave now and then a sharp cry, which the woman evidently tried to suppress.

At last, after many anxious glances the young man spoke.

"Has—has that baby anything contagious?" he asked.

The woman looked at him with a mixt of scorn and pity.

"Wouldn't be for most folks," she said in a clear, carrying tone, "but maybe would for you. He's a teetotaler."—Youth's Companion.

Completes in itself, Mother Graves' Worm Extiminator does not require the assistance of any other medicine to make it effective. It does not fail to do its work.

"Johnnie, I will give you a quarter if you can get me a lock of your sister's hair."

"Give four bits an' I'll git you de whole bunch. I know where she hangs it nighit."—Houston Post.

To Regulate the Bowels

Keep the bowels regular. This is the first and most important rule of health.

You can depend on Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney Liver Pill to help you carry out this rule.

They effect prompt and thorough movement of the bowels and as they do not lose their effect the dose does not have to be repeated.

By their enlivening action on the liver they positively cure biliousness and constipation.

I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pill for complete relief. Most satisfactory results. They have also cured a young man here of back-ache, from which he suffered a great deal."—Mr. Peter McIninch, postmaster, Belmont, B.C.

There is no question as to the efficiency of this well-known family medicine. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. At all dealers and Edman's, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE PILLOW.

Titus Gates and Daniel Defoe Both Suffered in It.

In the year 1837 the British parliament passed an act that put an end to punishment by pillory. Previous to the conquest this particular instrument of correction was used in England to inflict the same name on the neck." It consisted of a wooden frame erected on a stool in which were three holes for the head and arms. For days together offenders against the common law were thus exposed to public view. From historic accounts it appears that this particular form of punishment was meted out to those convicted of crimes of every description not only in England, but in nearly every country in Europe. In the days of the star chamber, when religions feeling ran high, the pillory was the ordinary punishment meted out to those who offended against the church. In 1835 Titus Gates was sentenced to sit in the pillory five hours every year during the rest of his life. Another famous sufferer was Daniel Defoe, the author of "Robinson Crusoe," who stood for three days in the pillory in Cheapside. It happened on occasions that the offender died while undergoing his sentence. During the time of execution the condemned man was not allowed to receive food or any sort of description. The last occasion on which a pillory sentence was passed was in 1814—London Globe.

A KING'S HOBBY.

The Mania of Frederick William I. For Collecting Giants.

Of all the manias that afflict mankind the most ancient and curious is probably that of collecting giants. Who collected giants near everything from books to shoes buckles and pins to postage stamps, but giant collecting was the hobby of Frederick William I, King of Prussia.

Nature designed him for a recruiting officer; destiny made him a monarch. All were fish who came to his net. Saxon, Austrian, French, Spanish, German, Swiss, Englishmen, Africans—provided they were at least twelve yards long. Some of his specimens were seven feet long, and when he obtained one still more prodigious.

The Saxon cabinet minister Wackenbarth, foreseeing the possible advantages of standing well with so near a neighbour, 1713 dispensed to Berlin a sum of 1000 ducats to assist him in his collection. The king collected pines, bears, stags, boars, deer, lions, tigers, elephants, monkeys, apes, camels, bulls, scorpions, and all skin troubles. 500c. a box, all drugs and stores or Zam-Buk, Co., Toronto, 3 boxes for $1.25.

Mr. Neil Devon, Webbwood, Ontario, says: "I have had Zam-Buk cure me. He since says: "I have had no return of the trouble so that I consider the cure permanent."

Zam-Buk also cures cuts, slices, burns, ulcers, felonized wounds, boils, scrofula, and all skin troubles. 50c. a box, all drugs and stores or Zam-Buk, Co., Toronto, 3 boxes for $1.25.

Wanted: Something New.

A good lady of indistinct education but ample purse, went into a book-store to buy a gift for her husband. She hovered round and manifested the usual indecision, whereupon an assistant, to help her, said of the different books, "This is a set of Shakespeare."

"Oh," replied the lady very promptly, "I read that when it first came out."—Harper's Weekly.

A Remedy for Bilious Headaches.

To those subject to bilious headache, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are recommended as the way to speedy relief. Taking according to directions they will subdue irregularities of the heart, remove biliousness from the head and blood vessels that the pains in the head will cease. There are few who are not at sometimes subject to biliousness and familiar with its attendant evils. Yet men need suffer with these pills at hand.

SALADA CROWN TEA

In this age of agitation for pure, clean food, it is refreshing to know that "Salada" Tea is sold to the public in all its native freshness and fragrance, preserved in sealed, air-tight cans, direct from the gardens to the consumer, soon after the tea is "in perfection," hitherto unknown.

It is said that Dinah Mulock Craik, the famous author of "John Halifax, Gentleman," made a habit of leaving at bank the manuscript of each of her novels, and the banker was always pleased to receive it.

Black Wagging.

Only animals with long and drooping ears are able to wag them. A rabbit, for instance, can do what it likes with its ear, dropping one or both and laying them flat along its back when dashing through thick cover. Hares are still more brisk in ear movements. But short eared beasts, like weasels and stoats, are unable to wag their ears in any degree, although they have enough ear to wag if they had the power.

Accurate.

"See here, landlord," said an angry tenant after he had signed the contract for a year, "this house is full of sewer gas."

"Yes, that's what I told you."

"Yes, I asked you if there was gas in every room, and I said there was."—London Answers.

THE BOY WHO DIDN'T.

And Now He Probably Regrets His Little Plan.

"Please, sir," said the office boy, "may I get away this afternoon?"

"What's wrong?" asked the great financier.

"Is your grandmother dead?" Little Willie had been taught that honesty was always the best policy.

He was a good boy. He never sneaked stamps from his employer, and he never threw the pretty typewriter into the window to get the boy to come back.

"I have no return of the trouble so that I consider the cure permanent."

"Oh, sir, I ain't got no grandmother. But the club that's in first place is going to play here today, and I'd like to see the game."

The old gentleman stared at him blankly for a moment and then drew from his pocket $2, which he handed to the boy.

Ah, reader, you have already guessed that the great man is but in dire bound to encourage such frankness—but wait.

"Here," said Henry Hardrocks, "here's your week's wages. Don't come back any more. A boy that can't even tell a lie deserves no reward virtue continues to have even competitors."—Chicago Record-Herald.

For the Week Man.

"I buy all of John's shirts," said the tall, firm-jawed woman, "and I don't allow him to wear loud colors. Show me some subdued shades."

"Yes," mused the witty clerk. "Just step this way. Here are some subdued shades for subdued husbands."—Detroit Tribune.

The Trouble.

Lowe Comedy—Starman, the tragedian, is hopelessly mad.

Hi Tragedy—Overstuffed?

Lowe Comedy—No, his understudy. He made a bigger hit in the part than Starman—Catholic Standard and Times.

In the causes of infant mortality cholera morbus figures prominently, and it may be said that complaints of the bowels are greater than those of the lungs.

Many mothers would avail themselves of so effective a remedy as Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial many a little one could be saved.

The Cordial is given with safety to the smallest child, and is injurious in substance in it.

A lady on one of the ocean liners who seemed very much afraid of icebergs asked the captain what would happen in case of a collision. The captain replied:

"The iceberg would move right along, madam, just as if nothing had happened, and the old lady seemed greatly relieved."—Success.

One packet of Wilson Fly Pads has actually killed a bushel of flies.

Mother—Don't tease me, Johnny. I can't see you in I'm a lot of trouble!

The boiler has sprung a leak.

Johnny—What makes it leak?

Mother—Because it's my day at home. I'm not up to the mark. I have dinner, the cook has left, and the butcher hasn't come with the meat. Now, run and play.—Brooklyn Life.

No dead flies lying about when Wilson Fly Pads are used as directed.

He was her "very best young man," and she was doing all she could to encourage him. "Did you know," he asked, "that I needed your help?" "Of course," she answered promptly. "Did you know I wouldn't know your step?" And the young man grew thoughtful and grave, for he had passed in a cab.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere

Miss Allalone, the self-reliant spinner, had been doing her own marketing in an attempt to save money.

"I'm not," said the dirty-faced newsboy, trying to squeeze the egg plant that was hanging over the side, "yer squeaker's out o' order. It won't honk."

—Chicago Tribune.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather, but Minard's Liniment, for infants, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, "in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give them." Baby's Own Tablets are these tablets of six given occasionally to the well child will prevent the trouble coming on. And the mother has the guarantee of a government scientist that the tablets are safe for minors.

Mrs. Geo. Minutol, Jr., Mont Louis, Que., says: "Before giving Baby's Own Tablets to my little one I use the softest soap from colds and stones, and then wash the child in warm water."

The Tablets soon cure her and she is now a plump, healthy child who does not look as though she ever had an hour's illness. You can get the Tablets in any size in medicine or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

She Hit Back.

"I told teacher, pop, that you said she taught you when you was a little boy."

"What did she say?"

"That stupidity must run in the family."

HIS NINE CHEESES.

An Old Time New England Story of a Stingy Person.

Anecdotes in which the mean and grasping man is outwitted or held up to ridicule are popular everywhere and always. Few ancient towns are without instances of stinginess punished by harsh treatment.

It is a common story in New England that a man named Starch, a grocer, never paid his bill in cash, but always paid it in cheese.

PINCHER CITY

A good place to live in. No earthquakes to jar your equilibrium, while the citizens of many of the Coast Cities are living in constant fear of being violently shaken by volcanic eruptions. The citizens of Pincher City are living with a feeling of safety from earthquake disturbances, but extend to the terror stricken citizens living in the earthquake zone their deepest sympathy.

Railway Company asks for Charter to build and operate Railway from Coal Mines to Pincher City

Even this railway news causes no undue excitement in Pincher City, as it has been almost a monthly occurrence during the past year for some company to ask the privilege of building a railway line to Pincher City. It is very probable that this line will be built into Pincher City, and it is very fortunate for this company that the many other companies who have asked for the privilege of building railway lines to Pincher City failed to construct their lines, for if they had done so it would necessitate this company to build a belt line of railway around Pincher City in order to obtain a landing in the City, which would entail an enormous outlay of capital.

Prospects for the Sale of Farm Land and City Property

We have a number of prospective buyers, both for Farm Land and City Property, whom we have been expecting for several weeks, but unfortunately for them they live in sections of the country where, according to newspaper reports, the climatic condition of the country has made life almost unbearable on account of the intense cold weather, which is, no doubt, the cause of their non-appearance in sunny Southern Alberta on schedule time.

While the weather here for the past few weeks might be called cool, especially the nights, it has caused no cessation of business, travel or duty. Many citizens of Pincher City made it their business to travel 20 to 25 miles in making a trip recently to perform the duty of voting for a councillor, and while no boasts are made that the trip was as pleasant as a trip in July to a celebration would be, still it shows what is being done in sunny Southern Alberta while our neighbors in other parts of the country are making a brave struggle to exist on account of the bitter cold weather they are having.

In reply to a number of inquiries we have had to our ad. in Pincher City lots, we have decided to refuse to sell lots in Pincher City to speculators, unless they agree to improve them by building either a residence or a business house. We find that it is imperative for us to make this rule, for if we did not too much of the property would be held by speculators, which would be a detriment to the building up of the town, and we find we will have plenty of buyers who will willingly comply with our rule in the matter of building.

If you are interested in Pincher City to the extent of being willing to buy lots and build, any inquiries re same will receive prompt attention.

We have a fine list of farm land at bargain prices on good terms.
